

AGRICULTURAL.

CUTTING POTATOES. The Boston Journal of Chemistry says that cutting potatoes for planting is a fertile source of weakness. The potato is a perennial plant, propagated from the eyes or buds of the tuber, and the tuber is not a part of the root, but rather of the top. The whole object of its formation, as far as nature is concerned, is for the purpose of perpetuating itself. The roots, leaves, stalks, and all parts of the plant, are there in embryo; cutting, therefore, rudely severs the embryo, and must inevitably weaken it. That it continues to grow only proves its great natural vigor. Try this practice upon the apple, peach, pear, plum, or any other fleshy germ, and see if you can continue to grow them. The skin of the tuber is almost impervious to fluids, and protects the stored up fruit from injury until the plant gets a start. Cutting it opens the way to injury from water, and causes the seed to rot, draws the plant when it does grow, and deprives it of the materials which nature placed within it for the sustenance of the plant while young. If we would restore it we must cultivate it upon high lands, cease stimulating it with animal manure and feculent matter to grow large crops; give it instead mineral manures, more room and more air. Overgrown tubers are deficient in starch, watery, and less nutritious. Few of us have ever had the happiness of eating this food in its best estate.

PERMANENT GRASS. Water meadows are among the most productive of permanent grass lands. Cut the management of water meadows is very frequently injudicious. No cattle should be allowed upon an irrigated meadow, nor should the water be permitted to run continually over one spot. A meadow thus treated very soon becomes a morass, and is then spoiled. A dressing of bone dust is remarkably beneficial to water meadows, greatly thickening the grass and improving the quality of the hay. An application of plaster the next year still further improves the meadow. As soon as the hay becomes inferior in quality and decreases in quantity, it is restored by a repetition of this treatment. The chances for making water meadows are frequent, and as their value becomes appreciated they will become much more common than they are now.

SUN-FLOWERS AS A CROP. We find in the Rural World the following enumeration of its values and uses: "In the first place, the flowers abound in honey, and furnish food for bees. The seeds contain oleaginous matter, and yield oil at the rate of one gallon to the bushel, which is little inferior to olive oil. One acre will produce fifty bushels of seed. It is also valuable for food for horses and poultry. It has been used for bread by the American Indians, and also in Portugal. The leaves are excellent fodder for cattle. The stalks while growing may be utilized as bean poles where they are scarce and difficult to be obtained, and when dry may be used for roofing, or set up against a fence to form a windbreak. They contain a large amount of potash, and are excellent for fire kindling. The seed has also been recommended as fuel. The reputation of the growing flower to absorb miasmatic vapors, and preventing fever and ague is also well known.

The other night a weak-eyed youth was sitting in church wholly forgetful of his surroundings and lost in beatific contemplation of a certain young woman, touching whom he cherished violent designs, when suddenly a hand was laid upon his shoulder, and a deep contralto voice thundered in his ear: "Young man, you look as if you wanted to go to Jesus! Won't you come to Jesus?" Whereupon he was stuck all of a heap, as it were, and stammered: "I would—I want—that is, I should like to go, you know, but not this evening, thank you; I have an engagement."

The young married man who found himself at the theatre, the other evening with feet encased in steel-colored boots, from a liberal application of stove blacking in the dark, wants to know "how long the house cleaning business is going to last, any way."

Up in Coos County, N. H., if the natives happen upon a visitor with gloves on, they ask: "What is the matter with your hands?"—Precepts, says Billings, are like cold buckwheat slapsacks, no body feels like being easy to them, and no body wants to adopt them.

GEN. SHERMAN AT THE CIRCUS. Let me tell what I saw not long ago at a circus. Sitting in front of us was Gen. Sherman, and with him quite a number of children whom he had gathered from the "by-ways and hedges." We saw him look down under the seat, and then haul out a dirty, ragged little dandy, who had crept in under the tent, and then sent him at his feet, where, by crowding, was made a place for the little rascal. "Now," said the General, "sit there my boy and see everything. Bless me! many a time I have done just the same thing, and many a thrashing have I had." He seemed like a child; everything pleased him, and we wondered where was the vanity of which people talked so loudly.—Cor. Cincinnati Commercial.

The Dubuque, Ia., folks were taken in and done for recently by a young fellow who spent a day or two billing and advertising a lecture by Mark Twain, whose brother he claimed to be, who ran up several bills, became quite a lion, and took some $250 at the door, then crossed to Dunleith and travelled eastward from the audience, who saw how it was after waiting an hour for Twain. But the joke of it, after all, was when he had been arrested, a justice discharged him because the State failed to prove that he wasn't Mark Twain's brother!

—An editor out West asks his readers to excuse the looks of his paper, as he is in bed from the effects of a fight with a delinquent subscriber.

—Josh Billings gives good advice to wives. He says: "Don't undertake to live with your mother-in-law; but if wuss comes to wussness let your mother-in-law live with you!"

—At Wamego, a place in the extreme West, is a shanty which bears the sign: "Here's Where You Get a Meal Like Your Mother Used to Give You."

"WE AND OUR NEIGHBORS"
Is the latest and rarest work by Harriet Beecher Stowe,
Author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin,"
"The Minister's Wooing," "My Wife and I," and other powerful stories, each the literary creation of its period; and this story promises a like genuine and wholesome sensation.
It bears directly on social topics of interest, embracing the romance of happy home-life, the splendid brightness of happy home-life, the complex complications of neighborhood associations, and those follies and profound domestic miseries as have led to the widespread Zemperance movements of the day.

Mr. Brown is now in the prime of that genius which wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin," repudied years of study and observation. Her novels are immensely popular. "Uncle Tom's Cabin," alone out-selling by hundreds of thousands any edition of any original work ever published —save the Bible. Her book two years ago,
"My Wife and I," outdid every contemporary.
Such a pure and ennobling story as "We and Our Neighbors" should be read in every home. This new serial is now running celebrately in the

Weekly Family Newspaper,
The Christian Union
Henry Ward Beecher,
EDITOR.

In religious matters this paper is evangelical and unsectarian; in political affairs, independent and outspoken. It contains the best articles, and both short and serial stories, from the foremost writers; it aims to maintain the highest standard in Religion, Literature, Poetry, Art, Music, Science, News, Political, Household and Family Affairs, with stories, Rhymes, Puzzles for the Children, etc.
Nothing is spared to make it a complete Newspaper for the Family, pure, attractive, wide-awake, and up with the times—a journal intending to every one in the household, young or old. It is

A MARVEL OF CHEAPNESS
Every week for less than one cent a day, it gives every week more matter enough to fill an ordinary $1.25 book of 300 pages; and in a yearly volume, it is, in every respect, a large worth of matter! To each is thus annually

PRESENTED
A Complete Library.
The form of the paper, 24 pages, large type, pasted and trimmed, commends it to all.
The well-earned popularity of this paper is now attested that of its class it has the LARGEST CIRCULATION IN THE WORLD.

And has readers by the hundreds of thousands.
An Illustrated Number, containing the opening chapters of Mrs.
Stowe's admirable story, will be

GOOD AGENTS WANTED.
The immense circulation of the Christian Union has been built up by active canvassers.
No other publication compares with it for quick and profitable returns. The public ac-cquiescence for Mrs. Stowe's new story, the popularity of the paper, the friendly support of thousands of old subscribers, the artistic premiums for immediate delivery, light out and complete "instructions" to canvassers, assure repeated success to agents, and offer active, intelligent persons unusual chances to make money. All who want a safe, independent business write at once for terms, or send $2.00 for Chromo outfit to J. B. FORD & CO., New York, Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati or San Francisco.

Why EXHIBIT THAT COUGH and endan-gerous disease, which is the high character of Compound will relieve you. It always cures relief, and will when taken in season cure more cases of disease of the throat, a Cough than any remedy known. It cleanses the system, and purifies the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to successfully purge out the great cor-ruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful antidote and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known of scrofulous, and all other scrofulous dis-

Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhoea, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons.
It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the vigor and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even when no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.
